FOOTBALL OFFENCES SEASON 2002-2003

Statistical Highlights

- Arrests for football related offences up by 19%, to 4,793 from 4,035, mostly at high profile matches
- Increase reflects low tolerance policing and lingering domestic football disorder problems with indications of an emerging new generation of troublemakers
- Arrest levels remain low – league attendance figures totalling 28,343,386 produced 3,695 arrests - an arrest rate of 0.01%
- Vast majority of matches remain trouble-free – 37% of Premiership, 71% of 1st Division, 80% of 2nd Division and 91% of 3rd Division games had one arrest or less. Overall, during the 2002–2003 season there was an average of 1.95 arrests per game
- 57% increase in the number of arrests for racist chanting (from 47 to 74) reflecting lower policing tolerance levels
- 187 football-related arrests on Public Transport nationally, compared to 128 during 2001-2002 season
- 57% of the total arrests were made outside of grounds, 79% of arrests for violent disorder outside of grounds
- Arrests of England fans increased from 68 to 261 - but 46% of these arrests made at the England v Turkey match at Sunderland in April 2003
- Very few arrests at the vast majority of English European club matches, total 165 of which 46% were at Blackburn v Celtic (42) and Newcastle v Feyenoord (34)
- Major increase in banning orders - up from 1,149 on 5 August 2002 to 1,794 on 14 August 2003
- Statistics for football-related arrests tell only part of the story and need to be placed in context. Some incidents, especially public disorder outside of grounds, may result in few arrests whereas, in other cases, a large number of arrests may be indicative of preventative police action.

FOOTBALL-RELATED OFFENCES - STATISTICS ON ARRESTS & BANNING ORDERS

Data submitted by Police Football Intelligence Officers (FIOs) is compiled by the Football Banning Orders Authority for annual publication. Previous to 2001/2002 season data was gathered and published by the football section at the National Criminal Intelligence Service (NCIS). During the last football season, FIOs gathered and submitted a wider range of data. This is reflected in the attached data.

3.	Home European Club Competitions - around 57% of total arrests occurred at 2 matches: Blackburn v Celtic (42 arrests, of which 26 were Celtic supporters) and Newcastle United v Feyenoord (34 arrests). The remaining 58 arrests were evenly distributed amongst 25 matches. 38 of the 134 arrests were supporters of visiting sides.
4.	Away European Club Competitions - estimated 65-70,000 English fans followed their clubs overseas to 38 competitive European club matches. The total of 31 arrests averages at less than one arrest per game. The data takes no account of short-term detentions for minor (usually passport) irregularities or protective detentions.
5.	Away European Club Competitions - Reports provided by various sources reveal that English fans were subject to unprovoked attacks on 10 occasions, including four significant assaults by missiles. On three occasions, English teams and fans were subject to high levels of racism. At least 16 English fans sustained significant injuries.
